

Carlton Fields' Christina Gagnier Authors Article in CISO MAG on Building Zero-Trust Environments

November 01, 2021

Carlton Fields cybersecurity attorney Christina Gagnier authored an article for CISO MAG, "The Missing Piece: Engaging Employees in Building Zero-Trust Environments," about how companies can continually shift towards zero-trust environments through working with their own employees. "Zero trust is about eliminating user error. The benefits of this elimination of opportunity for users in systems to cause massive exposure to a business are clear; but regardless of the technology advancements, businesses are still driven by the people who manage them and work for them," advises Gagnier. Read the article.

Related Practices

[Cybersecurity and Privacy
Technology](#)

Related Industries

Technology

